

CHARTER SCHOOL PLANNING GRANTS

WHO WE ARE

Great Public Schools Now (GPSN) is an independent nonprofit organization whose mission is to accelerate the growth and expansion of high quality public schools and significantly reduce the number of students attending chronically low performing schools in greater Los Angeles. GPSN will support the replication of successful public schools in communities of need, regardless of school governance type (charter, magnet, traditional, etc.). The organization is deeply rooted in the pursuit of educational equity – the belief that every child, irrespective of the zip code they live in, deserves a high-quality education that prepares them for college, career, and life.

PLANNING GRANTS

GPSN is seeking proposals to start new charter schools that address an educational need in Los Angeles, ideally are led by leaders of color, and either replicate proven models or propose innovative instructional designs (e.g., dual-language, Montessori, inclusive special education, blended learning).

To support applicants to submit robust charter petitions, GPSN will award select applicants with Planning Grants of $50,000 to assist in pre-authorization planning activities. Planning grants are intended for pre-authorization support only, and supplement post-authorization startup funds such as the Walton Family Foundation's High Quality Charter program. School teams that have received other pre-authorization support from GPSN, such as through incubator programs, are ineligible for additional planning grant monies.
